

Young Persons' Plan for the Planet Program

Young Persons' Plan for the Planet (originally Young Australians' Plan for the Planet) is a pilot extracurricular program established in Australia to promote and develop United Nations' Sustainable Development Goals and a sustainable development plan for Australia. We succeeded and had fun doing it!

It is now becoming an international initiative, how exciting!

Plan for the Planet aims to provide participants with awesome opportunities to further develop their leadership and collaboration skills, as well as prepares them for the great real world outside.

What did Kent Street Senior High School, Western Australia participants have to say?

“Being part of Plan for the Planet made me realise that I could make a positive impact on the world” - Pooja Prasad

“It has provided me opportunities to look at our planet in a whole new perspective” - Bei Yi Tin

“This program opened my eyes to the world around us and the problems we face today” - Kiran Letchford

“I’ve become more mindful of the carbon footprint I’m leaving behind as an individual, no matter how small it may be” - Lily Luu